

ALEX (female, 20s to 30s)

This is a small but pivotal part as Alex is the audience's window into why Betsy is so traumatized later in the story.

Alex, on her knees, soaking wet and seething, shakes the side of her cage with all her might, using Betsy as an outlet for her anger.

ALEX

You make me sick. You and your goddamn thank you's. What the hell are you thanking them for? Not killing us, yet?

MARISSA

Leave her alone.

ALEX

Fuck you. You haven't seen what they're going to do to us. First me then Betsy, no matter how polite she is, and then you. But don't worry, you won't get lonely. They won't let our cages stay empty more than a day or two.

[we will also want to see some ad-libbed begging for your life]